Farmers Must Report on Wheat Acreage Reduction Plan.

The Municipal Secretaries are now busily engaged in obtaining information with regard to the Wheat Acreage Reduction Plan.

Farmers who wish to participate in the bonus under this plan are required to file application forms with the municipal secretaries before May 1st.

It will be necessary for farmers to make their applications at the municipal offices.

In general the basis of bonus payments will be in the number of acres by which a farmer reduces his wheat acreage in 1941 as compared to 1940. If the farmer had an unusually large or small acreage in wheat in 1940 as compared to 1939, the number of acres sown to wheat in 1940 shall be taken as the average of the acreage sown to wheat in 1939 and 1940. If there was no wheat sown on the farm in 1940 but over 60 percent of the cultivated land was in wheat in 1939, the number of acres sown to wheat in 1940 shall 60 percent of the number of acres under cultivation on the farm.

After proof has been established that the farmer has performed summerfallow operations or sown coarse grains or grass on the acreage taken out of wheat, the following sums will be paid for wheat acreage reduction on or after July 1st, 1941:

The sum of $4.00 in respect of each acre which is summerfallow-ed in 1941 in excess of the number of acres which were summer-fallowed in 1940.

The sum of $2.00 in respect of each acre which is sown to coarse grains or grass on or before July 31st, 1941, in excess of the number of acres which were sown to coarse grains or grass respectively in 1940.

The Minister may pay an additional sum of $2.00 in respect of each acre, in respect of which any payment may be made under the preceding paragraphs, which was sown to grass in 1941 or which was sown to rye on or after August 1st, 1941, and is in grass or rye on July 1st, 1942.

There are two points that the farmer should bear in mind:

- (1) It is only on reduced wheat acreage as established for 1940 that payment is made
- (2) There must be an increase over 1940 acreage of other crop or summerfallow before payment can be made.

It should be remembered in planning the acreage to be sown to wheat that the delivery quota will be based on 65 per cent of the acreage the farmer had in wheat in 1940 and that no more than the quota for delivery will be accepted.

It is essential that every farmer make out a report of his crop acreage, or he may have difficulty in obtaining a delivery quota this fall.

CARD OF THANKS

To our friends who have shown us so many kindnesses during our recent sad bereavement, we wish to extend our heartfelt thanks.

Maudie and Mildred,

Grain Delivery Quotas Removed

The wheat delivery quotas at all stations in Western Canada was removed on Monday and this means that all farmers who still have grain in their bins can deliver all of it or as much as they desire.

Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, Minister of Trade and Commerce, pointed out that it must be realized space may not be immediately available at some points, but where such temporary "bottle necks" occur cars will be concentrated to relieve the situation as rapidly as possible.

Although some wheat is being accepted in Didsbury, present elevator space is at premium. It is expected, however, that within the next few days the situation will be relieved.
The elevators have received orders to ship and will do so as soon as cars are available and the new 60,000 bushel annex built by the Midland Pacific elevator will also help to relieve the situation.

Hold United Service

The "Salute to Britain" service in which all the Churches united, was held in the Evangelical Church on Sunday evening and was attend-

dian Legion, I.O.D.E., Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Rangers and Brownies, nization was well represented.

Rev. A. S. Caughell and impressive addresses were given by Rev. E.

Steals Watch, Gets Jail Sentence

Douglas Whiteside was brought before Magistrate McDonald on Friday last, charged with the theft of a watch from the office of the Bawlf elevator.

Constable Sweeney, R.C.M.P. of Olds, made the investigation and gave evidence that he found the stolen property in the possession of the accused. Whiteside pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 60 days at Lethbridge jail.

Vehicles Highway Traffic Act

A bill amending and consolidating the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act sets forth the rights and obligations of pedestrians. It declares, when walkers are crossing at an intersection under proper conditions, cars must give them the right of way when they are turning on such intersections. On highways, however, vehicles have the right-of-way, and walkers must keep to the left on the travelled portion of any highway.
It is also provided that cyclists convicted twice of using their wheels without proper lights are liable to lose their machines through impoundment.

Red Cross Notes

The sewing room at the school will be open for 2 nights in the future, namely Tuesdays and Thursdays.
As there is considerable work to be done and the ladies are asked to attend as often as possible.

Release immediately. Story begins.

Stunned victims of last night's worst air raid on London received large quantities of food, clothing and blankets from the Canadian Red Cross immediately after the Nazi Blitz ceased. The Society's Overseas
Commissioner today, Scott, cabled Headquarters C. A. one thousand civilians made homeless in a single borough, found Canadian supplies ready for them as they emerged shocked and terrified from shelters, and discovered the smoking ruins of their homes.

In the early hours of the morning officials called on the Canadian Red Cross for immediate assistance.
Major Scott said in his cable, fifteen hundred blankets were loaded onto lorries and speeded into the disaster areas. The food included soups, stews, hash, cheese and jam. All other London Boroughs affected by the raid also received Canadian assistance, the commissioner revealed.
"Thousands of parcels of food and clothing had been previously packed in preparation of such a Blitz," he cabled.

Elsewhere in England affected areas speedily received supplies from the Canadian Society, and some eight thousand garments were distributed through the Women's Voluntary Services to suffering victims, Major Scott declared.

Vandals Burn Straw Stacks

Some mischievous person started a fire at a new straw stack in Tom Morris' pasture on the west part of town on Tuesday night about 10 o'clock. The stack was completely destroyed.

Mr. Morris also reports that another stack further west near the Butte was set on fire and destroyed on Friday.

It is presumed that these fires were started by mischievous boys and if this is so they should be taught a severe lesson.

The matter was reported to the police and Constable Dunlop is investigating.

63 Years Married.

An account has been received of the celebration of the 63rd wedding anniversary, at Lakespur, Ontario, of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Simpson, grandfather and grandmother of Garnet and Harold Tighe.

Mr. Simpson will be 88 on May 21 and Mrs. Simpson 85 on May 25.
An interesting item in the account was that they have lived in the same house for 56 years.

War Victims' Fund

Toronto Evening Telegram's Fund Has Now Passed Half Million Dollar Mark

Just as a thermometer rises steadily and surely in the increasing warmth of the morning sun, so does The Toronto Evening Telegram British War Victims' Fund steadily rise in the warmth of human sympathy for overseas victims of Hun frightfulness.

From the original $10 "stake" that saw the birth of the plan, the fund has now passed the half million dollar mark. And from an initial donation of $20 on September 11, the fund has grown until the daily average of contributions has reached $4.726.

Half a million dollars is a lot of money. But one night's raid, indeed one bomb, can do more than half a million dollars' damage.

This half-million dollars constitutes the largest newspaper fund in the history of Canadian journalism. It started 171 publishing days ago with a donation of $20 from Ald. John Innes and his friends.

The fund "passed the Rubicon" March 31, with 200-odd contributions, amounting to $8,545.48, to rocket the grand total of $502,744.16. The largest day's total this year permitted the fund to wind up March with the largest daily average of contributions in its history—$4.726 per day.

Simultaneously with the fund passing the $500,000-march another 8,000 pounds sterling was cabled overseas. This, the 28th remittance, swelled to £110,000 the amount sent to the Lord Mayor's National Air Raid Distress Fund, the central agency designated by Prime Minister Winston Churchill to minister to bomb victims in England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland.

Here is a letter from Sir George Wilkinson, Lord Mayor of London, to thank the fund for a recent installment of 8,000 pounds:

"Nothing is more wonderful than the way you readers have rallied to the British people in their hour of need. The indefatigable efforts made by your readers, their unflinching loyalty and devotion will always stand as a shining example of the wholehearted co-operation of the British Empire.

"It is impossible for me adequately to express my gratitude for their overwhelming generosity, which is inspired not only by their profound sympathy for the brave people in this country who have lost their homes, but also by the desire to see the triumph of right over wrong, of civilization over barbarism, and of freedom over despotism.

"In conveying to your contributors my heartfelt thanks, will you please inform them that, though many of their homes be lost, and many of their historic and treasured buildings battered, the spirit of the British people remains resolute and unconquerable, and their will to win through to final victory indomitable."

France's Loneliest Man

Former President Lebrun Never Goes Very Far From Home

Pacing every day up and down the grounds of the beautiful chateau he refused to accept as a gift is "France's loneliest man"—former President Albert F. Lebrun. He and his wife have been living since last July within a stone's throw of the chateau at the home of his son-in-law and grand-children outside the village of Vizille.

Although completely at liberty, Lebrun seldom leaves his immediate neighborhood of his home. Occasionally he strolls into the village, but only rarely is he seen in the nearby town of Grenoble. Villagers who pass him near his house lift their hats and murmur respectfully: "Good day, Monsieur Le President." But this is the only homage he receives from his compatriots. Otherwise the third republic's only president to be re-elected after serving a full term receives no attention outside occasional attacks in the extremist press because he did not dissolve Parliament.

Grade Crossing Accidents

Heavy Toll Of Life In Canada, Mainly Through Carelessness

During the past year, 133 persons were killed and 485 were injured in 346 railway grade crossing accidents in Canada.

Sixty-eight of these accidents, taking the lives of 43 persons in the aggregate, occurred at crossings where protective safety devices were in operation.

More than half of the total accidents took place in broad daylight, under good visibility conditions.

One hundred and one accidents were caused, not by a train striking an automobile or truck, but, incredible as it may seem, by motorists running into the side of the train.

Carelessness on the part of the motoring public is largely responsible for this appalling toll of death on Canada's railway crossings. The urge to hurry, to take a chance, to plunge ahead without a thought for elementary safety precautions, comes high in what is often a losing race with death.

Commencing with this issue in collaboration with the engineering department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, we will publish a graphic series of photographs and diagrams illustrating the cost of carelessness, in an attempt to lessen the toll of tragic and unnecessary accidents.

England's Small Towns

If it weren't for the soldiers on the streets and the one lump of sugar for your coffee it would be hard to realize a war was on when you visit many of England's small cities and towns which have never known the crunch of a bomb, writes Ernie Pyle. In the provinces, policemen still wear the famous fore-and-aft hats, instead of steel helmets.

New Regulation Made

Gives Bee Importers Better Service And Ensures Quick Delivery

Regulations governing the importation of bees to Canada from the United States have been altered to give the importer a better chance of having more bees left when his packaged bees arrive.

In order to expedite the delivery of packaged bees and thus prevent the loss of bees by starvation, when consigned to points where a customs house is not located, due to being held at customs pending the payment of the 10 per cent. War Exchange tax, a new regulation has been made.

As a temporary measure pending further consideration, it has been decided that the 10 per cent. War Exchange tax on queen bees shipped to Canada by mail or by express, may be prepaid by means of customs revenue stamps which, in an amount equivalent to the amount of tax payable, are to be affixed to the package by the shipper.

Bee importers can obtain customs revenue stamps in denominations of 1, 2, 5 and 10 cents.

Warning Has Been Issued

Postal Regulations Forbid Sending Inflammable Substances Through Mails

A stern warning against enclosing matches, cigarette lighter fluid or other inflammable substances in the mails, has been issued by Dominion postal authorities at Ottawa.

The warning points out that it is contrary to the postal regulations for any person to post for delivery any inflammable, explosive, dangerous or destructive substance or liquid, through the mails and the person doing so is liable to prosecution.

The warning is particularly directed against those persons who have been sending matches and lighter fluid in parcels for troops overseas. Postal officials say that instances have occurred of these parcels igniting. If this were to occur aboard ship, and the ship were to be destroyed, it would constitute a "valuable stroke of work for the enemy."

R.A.F. Pilots Work In Garden Plots After Sky Battle

Royal Air Force pilots are fighting Hitler on the home food front as well as in the air. "Planned Spending" Helps You

When, where did those dollars leak out? There just isn't enough money left to get that rug you wanted—and the gas bill must wait until next month!

A budget is what you need. On payday set aside about one-fifth of the money for rent, other portions for clothes, health and so on—and some for "foolishness!" Then your spending's proof against the frittering which is so costly and unsatisfactory, too.

You're tempted by a cute bargain hat? Buy it if it's the foolishness you've allowed for. But as clothes? Will there just be that much less for your clothes fund, for the smart spring wardrobe you're planning?

So simply your budget solves such financial puzzlers. And with buying tips you can make your money stretch. You can save $50 to $100 a year on food by buying canned goods at sales, by having fish once in a while instead of meat.

Instead of being deprived of things you want you find enough money left after bills are paid to start planning for your heart's desire.

Gardening

Shrubs, trees and perennial flowers have a fearful habit of taking up more room when grown up than the average gardener anticipated. Generally speaking, when setting out such things, allow half as much space between, and away from fences or walls, as the natural heights for these plants in the catalogue. Thus the most common type of Spirea, the Van Houttei, which reaches a full height of from six to eight feet in most parts of Canada, should be planted from three to four feet apart or the same distance from wall, fence or hedge, for decorative effect. For a hedge, however, it may be planted closer.

Again the common peony, which grows to a height of two and a half feet when fully grown, should have about 18 inches between plants.

Good Seed

It is impossible to over-emphasize the importance of good seed. Other factors may be beyond control but the gardener has absolute check over this foundation. Weather, soil and location may be ideal, but without good seed specially selected to suit Canadian conditions, the garden is going to be a failure.

Have Vegetables Handy

In the kitchen garden, at the door, it is advisable of course to keep a plentiful supply of salad material like leaf and head lettuce, onions and, possibly, celery. The latter is set out in the garden as well started plants usually after all danger of frost is over.

For vegetable rows, there are small cultivators pushed by hand which will cultivate a plot 100 by 50 in well under an hour and these can be procured in larger size for horse or tractor.

If a supply of cut flowers is wanted for the table, blooms with long stems that will keep well in water, horticultural authorities urge, the planting of sweet peas, snapdragons, cosmos, zinnias, lupine, African marigolds, scabiosa, asters, single and double, verbena and salpiglossis. If preferred these can be grown in rows in the vegetable garden.

Washington State's apple orchards trace history to apple seeds brought by a member of the Hudson's Bay Company.

WHEN DEATH WON THE RACE

Beginning to-day, this paper, in collaboration with the engineering department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, presents a graphic new series, in photo and diagram, in its campaign to halt the appalling toll of railway crossing accidents, which took 133 lives in Canada last year. One almost incredible feature of the 1940 death list was that out of a total of 346 accidents, 101 were caused by the auto or truck involved actually running into the side of a speeding train, as illustrated above. Elementary caution in approaching the crossing would have averted a fatal crash.

DAUGHTER OF DESTINY

"A great pleasure, Senorita Raebourne." His smile was a white ivory flash in his swarthy face, and his eyes—

Devona didn't quite know what to think about his eyes. She felt herself flushing uncomfortably under their bold search.

"You must bring the Senorita in the evening, my friend," he went on. "Then we have the music and dancing and singing. This is siesta time." He shrugged eloquently.

"Some time—maybe," Dale murmured, not too enthusiastically. "And now, if you'll excuse me a moment, Devona, I'll wind up my business and we'll be on our way."

"Certainly," Devona, smiling, watched the two men across the huge, nearly deserted dining room, enter a door marked "Private—Manager."

Strange that Dale should have "business" with some one like Senor Macias, she mused, idly, watching the waiters in Mexican costume who lounged against the iron railing of the imitation patio. There was something so—romantic, so storybook about this place. She said that to Dale when, a little later, he helped her into the blue coupe again.

"Romantic!" He laughed. "Depends on what kind of storybooks you like! This one wouldn't be healthy reading for a sweet kid like you."

"I'm—going on 19," she said a little stiffly.

"Maybe," Dale grinned. "But you're not going on any slumming parties—not yet! You leave that to the movie stars and the idle rich."

"But Senor Macias looks as if he might be a movie star himself," she objected, still a little piqued. "And I'm sure he'd be offended if he knew you called his elaborate club—slums."

Dale laughed, a hearty, deep-throated sound. Then: "You're right there. And Macias is handsome. No denying that. The girls go for that sort of daredevil gallantry of his. And most of them get their poor little hearts broken for their trouble."

"Why? Is Senor Macias a woman hater?"

"Far from it. He loves them and leaves them. Any pretty new face, and it's off with the old and on with the new. Some day that boy is going to wake up with a knife in his back."

"Mercy," Devona gasped. "How melodramatic!"

"Nothing melodramatic about the money that fellow makes," Dale went on. "He's a smart business man. Plays up that Mexican stuff for all it's worth. It's a break for me, at that."

"How?"

"I'm in the D.A.'s office. Just a punk assistant; but I'm working with the boss on some special stuff right now. Jose helps me meet the 'right people.' He cocked an eyebrow. 'Jose knows everybody, and sooner or later everybody turns up at El Mexicano.'"

They were leaving the business district rapidly behind now, racing by pretty suburban homes, lovely gardens ablaze with color.

"It must be exciting, being an attorney," Devona thought aloud. "What special thing are you working on now?"

"Dope running, mostly. A big supply of heroin started coming in here a couple months ago. So far we can't trace it. Jose has given me some good tips, but as yet we haven't made any arrests."

Devona's eyes widened. "But isn't it awfully dangerous?"

"Not so far. I haven't gotten that close to a runner. But—" his jaw set. "I will. I've got to. The D.A.'s about to retire. Might mean I get his job—if I make good."

"You will." One look at the determination in those blue eyes would convince any one of that!

"Maybe—some day," he grinned again. "Now let's talk about you. About how you learned to be so pretty, for instance."

Still talking down to her, as if she wore middy blouses, Devona realized. "I didn't learn it," she said, archly. "It's a gift."

He laughed again from somewhere deep inside, and the sound did amazing things to her pulse.

"And I suppose you couldn't help leaving a trail of broken hearts from Bombay or Timbuctoo, or whatever port you besieged last."

A quick glance under long lashes. "Oh—farther than that!"

"So now you've come to devastate all Hollywood?" He shook his head. "There ought to be a law."

"Why? Doesn't Hollywood like being devastated?"

"It will love it."

So then they both laughed, because, somehow, laughing was fun.

Everything was fun. The long drive through the golden afternoon, the gauzy twilight. The fragrance of orange groves in blossom, the looming menace of white-capped San Bernardino Mountains marching always at their left.

And it was so easy to talk to Dale. To tell him of places she'd been, people she'd met. If she skipped lightly over the dull parts and dropped ever-so-casual references to the beautiful beach at the Lido and the thrilling ski-runs below the Jungfrau, it was only a bit of harmless playacting.

Nobody of her mother's bright world would really be interested to know that the three weeks she'd spent in a Lido hotel had been horrible days of waiting for her father and suffering agonies of shyness and loneliness. And that the only time she'd been near the Jungfrau, her father had forbade her skiing. It was too dangerous.

Dad had always been like that. So afraid she'd be exposed to danger, he'd kept her wrapped in cellophane. Dear, darling dad. They'd always done everything together. Not an art gallery in Europe. Not a cathedral, not a waterfall, but they'd thrilled to it together. Father, mother, teacher, friend—dad had been all of those. That had made losing him unbearable. And finding her mother now so imperative. The world was a horrible place when it held no one you loved.

"You've certainly been around a lot, haven't you?" Dale asked once.

"Some," Devona smiled to her self. You don't go around admitting you've been raised like a Victorian. At least not to a fascinating some one like Dale Brasher.

For a moment the desert slipped by silently. They'd long since exchanged green orchards for red-brown rolling hills, mesquite-studded. And the pungent odor of sage.

Suddenly Dale murmured, almost angrily: "It's probably a damned good thing you have." And then, as if there were some significance, "There's Palm Springs ahead now."

"Palm Springs." And—home! Heart bumping, Devona saw the tiny constellation of lights flickering against the blue velvet backdrop of the sky. Anxiously she watched the lights rush toward them as the blue roadster leaped over the white highway. Why was it a "damned good thing" she'd been around, she wondered. And why should this tall, charming stranger try to warn her of something? Twice within the last hour he'd hinted at danger ahead.

CHAPTER II.

The great Spanish hacienda at the end of the palm-lined drive blazed with lights. For a minute, as Dale stopped the car in the curving gravelled drive, Devona saw the whole picture wash together in a blur of tears. Home! she whispered past the lump in her throat. Beautiful, spacious, hospitable past anything she'd dared dream. In another moment she'd step through that wide doorway and for the first time in 14 years, she would be—home.

A Chinese house-boy opened the car door, helped her out.

"Hello, Wong," Dale greeted him. "This is Miss Raebourne, Miss Vadne's daughter."

The boy bobbed a bow at her. "Welcome, Miss Raebourne," he said with an astonishingly British accent. "Miss Vadne has not yet returned. May I show you to your room?"

"Thank you," Devona repressed a little shudder. He was so terribly homely and so different from the friendly smiling Chinese coolies she'd seen in Shanghai. There was something actually hostile behind the impassive Oriental mask of his face. His voice perhaps. Of that unbelievably British accent. It was silly—but she loathed him, instantly.

"When do you expect Miss Vadne?" Dale asked as they crossed the wide veranda.

"Any moment, sir. She expected to be here when Miss Raebourne arrived."

Devona felt a little of her disappointment dissolve. At least her mother had intended, had wanted to be here to welcome her. Some interruption, some unavoidable delay had made it impossible.

"Don't mind," Dale, smiling as if he'd read her thought, took her arm. "Vadne's always late. Wong will show you upstairs. Dinner's never until 8:30 anyway. You'll have plenty of time to change."

"You're staying, too, aren't you?"—suddenly panicked at the thought of being alone, a stranger in a strange house with only a malevolent-looking Chinese servant! Dale already seemed an old friend.

"Sure." He grinned at her, blue eyes teasing again. "Not scared, are you? A world traveller and—"

"No, of course not." She managed a smile and started up the tiled stairway after Wong. "See you later."

"Don't make it much later," Dale called after her. "I'll be waiting for you in the patio."

Flushing, Devona ran the remainder of the way. Dale was so nice. Surely some girl must already have discovered that. American men were different from Europeans. Different, she decided a little shyly, and nicer. Lots nicer.

War Savings Certificates

Why It Is Found Necessary To Mail Them Out One At A Time

There's been a lot of comment from those who have ordered more than one certificate to find them arriving in separate envelopes. The thought was that it was a lot of extra work for clerks at Ottawa, but the exact opposite is the real truth. All this work is done by an intricate machine at the rate of 3,500 an hour and over 40,000 applications a day is the handling capacity. To search through this number of applications in order to put two or three in one envelope would be exceedingly costly.

Then, too, many people ask why the certificates are not made out to "Bearer." If they were they would be the same as money and when lost could not be traced—the present certificates cannot be used for any other purpose as they are registered in the owner's name.

This is the information as given by W. H. Somerville, joint national chairman of the War Savings Committee, Ottawa, in answer to numerous enquiries and we agree that War Savings Certificates are one excellent way of helping the war effort—if you keep buying them regularly.

Elevator Agents In Saskatchewan Soliciting Donations Of Wheat

The Canadian War Services Fund has enlisted as workers the 3,200 elevator agents in Saskatchewan. If on an average 100 bushels of wheat are donated by the growers at each elevator, it would mean that 300,000 bushels would be contributed by the farmers of this province. Every wheat grower in Saskatchewan will be canvassed by the elevator men, and it is confidently expected that the objective will not only be reached, but greatly exceeded. The province of Saskatchewan has undertaken to raise the sum of $263,000 in support of the fund, and if everyone in both urban and rural sections will do their part there is every reason to expect that the campaign will go over the top. If we are to maintain for ourselves and our posterity the freedom which we now enjoy, we must be prepared to make every sacrifice for its preservation.

Famous Etchings Lost

The National Gallery was advised that enemy action had caused the loss at sea of one of the best Rembrandt etchings in existence. The etching, depicting the crucifixion, was being taken to Australia for exhibition. It was insured for $2,400.

While In Uniform

Since the United States is a neutral country Canadian soldiers, airmen or naval ratings while in uniform may not cross the international boundary despite the close co-operation of the two countries in the war effort, external affairs department official said.

Germany's invasion chances of course are increased by the fact that it now has a large corps of experienced channel swimmers composed of airmen who have been shot down into the sea.

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. STRANGE

Some persons, it seems, are objecting to the payment by the Dominion Government to our Western wheat growers of any sum as a bonus either for summer-fallowed land or for any other reason. The chief argument used by these critics is that the present surplus wheat situation has been brought about mainly by the insistence in recent years of Western wheat growers to increase their acreage.

The official statistics do not bear out these claims. The average annual acreage seeded to wheat for the past six years, that is from 1935 to 1940 inclusive, has been 25,306,466, whereas the similar average annual acreage seeded to wheat for the six immediate preceding years, that is from 1929 to 1934 inclusive, was 24,949,201, an increase in the annual average for the past six years of 287,265 acres only, or just over 1 percent.

This is an almost insignificant increase particularly when it is considered that since 1629 the world's population has increased by at least 10 per cent and that the world's consumption of wheat since 1929 has actually increased by 5.3 percent.

It is quite evident, therefore, that the present condition of the Western wheat industry, with its unsold surplus, and the sad plight of our farmers has certainly not been brought by any increase in wheat acreage in recent years.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Unfavorable spring weather, serious winter losses and war have considerably reduced the Balkan crop prospects. Exports of Canadian wheat for single week ending April 9th were 7.7 million bushels, the last week since December 1932. Navigation has re-opened on the Great Lakes. Unoccupied France is negotiating for large quantities of U.S. wheat.

Following factors have tended to lower price: On April 1st Kansas winter wheat crop estimated at 149 million bushels, highest for several years. Combined surplus of old and new Argentina corn crop is estimated at 475 million. Production of barley in Turkey during 1940 was 121 million bushels, 30 million bushels over the average. German advances into Greece curtails Grecian imports of wheat.

Tobacco Trial

Opened Monday

Trial of 40 tobacco manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers charged with conspiracy and restraint of trade under Combines Investigation Act opened Alberta Supreme Court in Edmonton Monday, before Mr. Justice S. J. Shepherd.

Arrangements were being completed today for handling approximately 50 persons who have been notified to report as prospective jurors.

The "combine" charges against the 40 defendants were laid after a stay of proceedings had been entered by the Crown in the cases of 44 defendants last May. Charges were laid under the Criminal Code in the previous cases.

The majority of the defendants in the new cases are the same as in the original charges. Six of the original defendant companies have dropped and 2 more added.

SONNET 1806.

Another Year!—another deadly blow!
Another mighty empire overthrown!
And we are left, or shall be left alone;

The last that dare to struggle with the foe.

'Tis well! from this day forward we shall know

That in ourselves our safety must be sought;

That by our own right hands it must be wrought;

That we must stand unpropped, or be laid low.

O dastard whom such foretaste doth not cheer!

We shall exult if those who rule the land

Be men who hold its many blessings
dear,

Wise, upright, valiant; not a servile band,

Who are to judge of danger which they fear,

And honour which they do not understand.

—Wordsworth.

When Wordsworth wrote these stirring lines at the close of 1806, Napoleon was master of a continent. Nations big and small fawned beneath a conqueror's heel—all but one, England—last bulwark against tyranny, last hope of freedom loving men. Nine years later, he who had dominated Europe stood a gloomy figure on the wind-swept cliffs of St. Helena. And England stood proudly—master of her destiny—as England shall stand again when "all this shall pass away."

Weeds and Flowers

Last year we announced a service which would assist farmers and young people in becoming familiar with the many kinds of weeds which infest farm lands and gardens. Specimens may be handed to any grain buyer serving any one of the elevator companies associated with the work of the Agricultural Department. The grain buyer will be glad to send the plants on to us for identification.

It is very important to secure good specimens. The entire plant, including flowers and roots, should be sent, unless it happens to be an elm tree or a willow.

Young people or others interested in botany are welcome to submit any plants they care to. We have built up a good collection of native plants, and expect to add many more this summer. There is no end of pleasure to be found in making and preserving plant collections, and young people living in the country should try it. We are preparing a circular dealing with collecting, pressing, mounting and labelling specimens, copies of which may be secured from The Agricultural Department, The North-West Line Elevators Association, Winnipeg.

We are playing host to several dangerous perennial weeds, which may be cheaply and readily eradicated if caught in time. Once they are well established it may cost more than the land is worth to get rid of them. If every young man over twelve could make every weed on the home farm, we would be well on the way to winning the weed war.

Quoted by President Roosevelt in radio address, March 15, '41.

The President in his radio address warned the American People, that a half hearted effort on their part would lead to failure and urged an all-out effort.

New Courses at Banff School of Fine Arts

Its purpose to establish and promote in Canada that wider culture and sense of appreciation of the finer things of life which must come with a new society after the war, the Banff School of Fine Arts has arranged a particularly interesting course of studies for the month of August. The school, which is now entering its ninth year, is sponsored by the Department of Extension of the University of Alberta, at Edmonton, in cooperation with the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art, Calgary.

The school is by no means confined to Alberta. Last year there were 475 students from Vancouver in the month of June. In the east, from Peace River in the North to Buenos Aires in the south. The registration is expected to cover similar territory this year. The student body includes teachers, high school and college students and others interested in the arts purely for aesthetic reasons.

Courses regularly studied include the theatre, art, music, modern and ancient, and classes for children covering the theatre, art and music. The faculty is in the majority of the finest in the country. The school is a large, modern building, with a central hall, a large auditorium, a library, a museum, a workshop, a dining hall, a kitchen, a laundry, a bathroom, a shower, a swimming pool, a tennis Inverness Items

The Inverness Beaver Club met at the home of Mrs. R. Thompson on April 17th, with 10 ladies present. The afternoon was spent knitting. The ladies sent $5.00 into the local Red Cross, and decided to buy some trimmings for the refugee dresses that are being made with the money left. At each meeting there is Red Cross and refugee sewing handed out and some turned in.

There were quarters taken in for another War Savings Certificate and the last one was won by Mrs. D. W. Sutherland of Westward Ho. A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Geo. Coutts and Mrs. Thompson.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clifford Gibbs on May 1st, when the ladies will sew quilt blocks.

Instructions For Planting Trees

When planting trees they should be set about 2 inches deeper in their new location than they were in the nursery. A good large hole should be dug which will permit the roots being well spread out and a small pile of earth should be placed in the centre of the hole to support the tree because the roots may be broken when the tree is firmly tamped into place.

If the soil is moist no water is required, but if the ground is dry, a couple of pails of water should be poured into the hole and allowed to soak away before actually planting. When replacing the soil be sure that it is not too lumpy, so that it comes in contact with the roots and as the hole is filled, tramp it well. Slope the soil up to the trunk of the tree so that the rain or water will run to the outside of the hole where the roots can get it best.

If the tree has not been pruned, it should be well trimmed back. The development of a good root system is of first importance and this can not take place if the top of the tree is too large. Use the pruning knife liberally.

Manning Pool For Penhold

The new No. 37 Service Flying Training School at Penhold will see temporary service as a training pool similar to those at Toronto and Brandon, starting May 12. It was learned at the time more than 100 men from Edmonton and Calgary, who have been enlisted for a short, intensive course to train them as ground radio technicians, will go to Penhold, before going to the University of Alberta, in Edmonton for their training, June 9th.

A Morale Restorative

Whatever may be the ultimate outcome of the revolt of the people of Yugoslavia against the betrayal of their country by their erstwhile rulers, it is one of the most significant events that has so far occurred in the progress of the war on the European continent, and even if it does not prevent that country from eventually being gobbled up by the Nazi hordes it will have a long-range and far reaching effect on the course of the conflict and possibly upon its duration.

The immediate practical effect of the unexpected turn of events in Yugoslavia, of course, is to have put a very bad crimp in Adolf Hitler's plans. It has slowed up his triumphal march to the southeast at a time when rapid movement was a vital necessity to the success of his major objective, the campaign to defeat Britain, before Italy can be knocked out and before material assistance from the United States turns the scales definitely against the Axis powers.

But the blow which Hitler has received at the hands of the common people of Yugoslavia can be calculated to have an even more important effect in the bolstering of morale which it will furnish for the people of those countries which have been brought under the Nazi yoke and who are now looking around agonizingly for some sign that the fetters which bind them will eventually be knocked off.

Further, the magnificent example of the action of the Serbs will do much to encourage the people of other countries, not yet under the Nazi yoke, whose rulers Hitler might expect to use as pawns in his game of conquest by subversive methods, followed by display of mechanized military might.

It is possible that history may eventually show that the stiffened resistance to Nazi demands put up by the populace of Yugoslavia proved to be the turning point in the war on the continent of Europe, not only because of its immediate result, but because of its effect on the later course of the war.

Waiting For The Day

Out of the thick pall of murk which overhangs the gloom of Nazi-ridden Europe, sufficient evidence is trickling through to demonstrate beyond doubt that millions of the subjugated peoples are anxiously awaiting the moment when from within, they can give effective help to their deliverers from without.

In every one of these subjugated countries millions are playing the game of passive resistance to the decrees and the policies of the hated conqueror. Some of the more daring are engaging in overt acts of sabotage, whenever and wherever an opportunity is afforded. In most of these countries secret and skilfully hidden radio transmitters are keeping the people informed of what is going on beyond their own narrow boundaries. As a result Hitler is forced to keep large standing armies on guard in every one of the countries that he has added to his collection in the past 18 months, reducing equipment and personnel available for his program of further expansion and for carrying on his war against Britain. Even in those countries where the particularly harsh treatment as has been meted out to the Poles has been modified, the sufferings of the people have been and are sufficiently severe to make them "non-co-operative." Half-starved, while their conquerors live on the best that is available; robbed of all liberty and privileges, millions of these people are too proud to bow in submission and only await the propitious moment to arise once more and assert themselves.

Spirit Is There

A few incidents related in the Continental press illustrate the spirit abroad in the conquered countries. Three thousand people, many of them from afar, attended the funeral of a Norwegian sailor who was killed by the bayonet of a German soldier when he resisted remarks made by the soldier while the Norwegian was walking with a girl of his own nationality in the town park of Molde.

A Dutchman was sentenced to three years when he seriously injured a German soldier in a cafe by throwing a beer glass at him. Three young Dutchmen were sentenced to 17 months imprisonment for expressing their enmity to the German forces by taking the caps of German officers from a restaurant cloakroom and tearing them to pieces. "Certainly a mild sentence for this great insult," declared the German court.

In Brussels, Belgium, when Germans board trams all the other passengers alight. The cinemas which show German news reels are empty.

In spite of tremendous privations and persecutions, Polish resistance is growing. In Kalsz, a Polish technician was imprisoned for publicly talking of damage by R.A.F. raids on Berlin. In Lodz, a 17-year-old boy was sentenced to ten years imprisonment on the charge of insulting a German official. In Dortmund, a special tribunal sentenced a Pole to death who had left his work in Germany and resisted arrest. In a village near Magdeburg, Germany, three German women were sentenced to 18 months imprisonment for giving food and cigarettes to Polish prisoners of war.

Incidents of these kind could be multiplied by hundreds and by thousands. If only all the information were available. It demonstrates the spirit that is abroad among these people, and the heartening effect upon them and the stimulus it will give to continued resistance as the news of the Yugoslav revolt penetrates to the innermost corners can scarcely be over-emphasized.

Nazis Cannot Control Thoughts

The Dutch have been told, in just so many words, that even to think bad thoughts of their German conquerors would be done at the risk of death. This is where the Nazis make their grossest miscalculation. They cannot by the sword destroy the intellect or subdue the spirit of those whom they oppress. And this will prove their undoing.—The Argonaut.

Idea Not Very Popular

Many Americans Think Food For France Will Benefit Germany

Apparently a tentative agreement has been reached between the United States and Great Britain to permit American food to go to un-occupied France. The food will be shipped in French ships and will be distributed under the direction of the American Red Cross. The Vichy Government will be asked to give strict guarantees that none of the food will be diverted elsewhere.

Many Americans will regret that this country is to undertake feeding of France. No matter what safeguards are imposed and no matter how strict the supervision, Hitler will benefit directly or indirectly from this decision.

Fortunately the venture is in the nature of an experiment. Even many of those who advocate it frankly admit their misgivings and say that their future course will be guided by how this first attempt works out. In other words, our policy and that of Great Britain with respect to feeding France is still uncertain. That will be determined later.

We would dislike greatly to see the United States adhere to the course that it is our duty to feed all the peoples that Hitler has enslaved. That certainly would be playing into the hands of the Germans with a vengeance. Hitler has announced that any ships carrying food to England, whether they be American ships or not, will be promptly sunk. In the face of this we ship food into territory controlled by the Germans and ask the British to permit those ships to be given safe passage.

Great Britain has been reluctant to yield on this matter. She yields now, undoubtedly, because of American pressure and against her own better judgment. Now that the decision appears to have been made, we in this country whose position has been similar to that of the British will yield too, but we do so with reservations and in the hope that if the result of the experiment justifies our fears it will not be continued.—Watertown, N.Y., Daily Times.

BRAN DUMPLINGS TOP THE STEW

If your dinner's "in a stew" just top it off with bran dumplings and you'll do no "stewing" about the success of your meal! This new version of an old favorite, is the answer to every cook's ambition—dumplings, which are light, digestible and appetizing!

You don't have to be a master-cook to make these dumplings turn out perfectly. The secret is in the recipe, and even a bride may follow these directions and win compliments for dumplings as good as any mother used to make! Try them on the family, and remember the one general rule for cooking: if your stew is very liquid, remove some of the liquid (keeping it hot) before cooking the dumplings. Your stew should be "meaty" enough to keep the dumpling up while it is cooking.

Perhaps They Could

The Brockville Recorder and Times asks this question: If women can make appointments at their hair-dressing parlors, why can't men do likewise at their barber shops instead of frequently having to wait for their turn in the chair?

Men sneeze more readily than women, says Dr. M. W. Jennison of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Passive Resistance

Workers in Amsterdam are not proving to be at all tractable to their Nazi masters; they remain home for days at a stretch, causing factories and public services to close. Hitler may find it difficult to overcome this passive resistance.

Empire Trade Is On The Increase Owing To Britain's Sea Command

By Sir Archibald Hurd

Author of the Official History of the Merchant Navy in the War, prepared under the auspices of the Historical Section of the Committee of Imperial Defence.

The Empire continues to trade by sea in spite of the so-called "Total Blockade" of the enemy. That is the economic miracle of these times, and it is due to the victorious command of the sea by the Empire's navies and the courage, resource and endurance of the merchant seamen, not only of the Empire but of all the European democracies—Norway, Denmark, Greece, Belgium, Poland, Finland and others.

They have all made their contributions to the largest mercantile fleet which has ever been under a single management—the Ministry of Shipping in London, which unifies the individual management by Government Departments of the Dominions.

These merchant ships are thrashing the seas on their lawful occasions. Losses occur, but they have not been so great as seriously to interfere with the business of the great group of trading communities represented by the British Empire.

A powerful and well-balanced fighting organization for duty at sea, on land and in the air has been mobilized. Supreme at sea, it is rapidly gaining the ascendancy in the air and is training and equipping great armies, supported by ample supplies of munitions of all descriptions.

The goods which entered the ports of the British Isles last year were of a total value of £1,099,356,000,—24.3 per cent. larger than in any year since 1920, a boom period. The exports of British manufactures and coal were to the value of no less than £413,084,000, a decline of only six per cent. on the previous years' figures. This in spite of the fact that all available manpower had been organized for the prosecution of the war. So, in all, the goods which entered or left the British Isles were worth upwards of £1,500,000,000—all of them carried by sea.

Reports from the Dominions, Colonies and Protectorates show that they are profiting from the command of the sea and the courage with which merchant seamen, undaunted, are standing up to the enemy's attack.

Canada, in spite of all she is doing to assist in the prosecution of the war on land, on sea, and in the air, has displaced Germany as the third most important exporting country in the world.

She has in consequence a healthy trade balance. The population has never been so fully employed. During 1940, approximately 3,770 vessels carrying a deadweight tonnage of 22,260,000 were convoyed from the American side of the Atlantic to British ports in face of the so-called "Total Blockade."

Australian exports have also increased to a greater extent than have her imports, an indication of economic planning. The Commonwealth has never been so busy as it is to-day.

South Africa also is preparing, her exports having shown a phenomenal development.

New Zealand, though far removed from the main current of world trade and with a population of only about a million and a half, mainly engaged in agriculture, is playing no mean part in supporting the Empire's trade movement.

India's foreign trade, according to the latest figures, is on a higher scale than at any time for the past three years. Her exports increased by nearly £30,000,000 in the first year of the war and are still expanding.

The same story of progress comes from all the Colonies and Protectorates of the British Empire. Malaya, in particular, is profiting from the increased demand for rubber and tin. All the other territories are faring well, producing primary products in vast volume and finding markets for these products.

Germany and Italy ranked high as commercial seapowers with no less than 8,000,000 tons of merchant shipping. Nearly 400 of their ships, aggregating 2,000,000 tons have been captured or scuttled and the most of that rest are in hiding. The United States Congress has excluded all American vessels from the "war zones." Japan, with a merchant fleet of 5,600,000 tons, has had to restrict her shipping services owing to her amphibious war in China where, after over four years of war, upwards of one million of her soldiers have to be supplied by sea with food, munitions and all they require.

Though so many merchant ships under these flags have been withdrawn from the trade routes, the ocean commerce of the British Empire is being carried on to an extent which transcends the most optimistic prophecies. Once more the value of sea command to the British people is being proved.

Three hundred years ago, when the British Empire, as we know it, had no existence, Sir Walter Raleigh wrote words which apply even more significantly to-day than they did then. "Whosoever commands the sea commands the trade; whosoever commands the trade of the world commands the riches of the world and consequently the world itself."

Within our time man has conquered the air, but, so far as international trade is concerned—the carrying of cargoes of heavy raw materials and manufactures—nothing has happened to invalidate Raleigh's testimony to the commercial importance of seapower.

Aid War Prisoners

British Prisoners Of War In Germany Supplied With Books

Amid the crash of Nazi bombing or high above the noise of London traffic, Miss Christine Knowles in Carrington House, Hartford Street, directs the lively revival of a voluntary organization which flourished during the First Great War—"The British Prisoners of War Books and Games Fund."

As the name indicates the objective is to keep the 44,000 British prisoners in Germany supplied with books and games, music and musical instruments. These mean much in morale, comfort and heartening of prisoners.

The books include novels, language texts, books of travel, history, memoirs, biography, philosophy, poetry and plays. A nucleus of 1,000 books is placed in each camp to build up libraries.

As soon as the service man's family has been notified he is a prisoner of war his address is obtained by the book fund. Immediately a small parcel containing a Bible, novel, a pocket chess board and counters and a pack of cards is sent. Enclosed also is a card upon which he may indicate his personal tastes and hobbies.

These cards are returned and their requests filled. Some ask to learn Spanish, German, French and other languages. Some ask for Bibles in Welsh and Gaelic.

Through this organization anyone can adopt a prisoner and for $1 a month, parcels of books will be sent to him.

Empire Parliamentary Association

Speaker Stresses The Value, Particularly In Wartime

Declaring that the Empire Parliamentary Association meetings are particularly valuable in wartime, Sir Howard d'Egville, secretary of the association, expressed the hope in an address at Edmonton that "it soon may be found suitable to form a branch of the association in the legislature of Alberta."

Alberta is the only province in Canada which is not a member of the association.

Sir Howard spoke to members of the legislative assembly on the floor of the legislature.

Outlining the war situation he said it would have been impossible for the Greeks to achieve the success they have in their war with Italy without the help of the British navy and the Royal Air Force.

He said only the British navy stood between Hitler-dominated Europe and the North American continent and in the way of an invasion of this continent by air.

Some Odd Places

We read, says the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, that a London constable was shot in the fracas, which is probably as painful as being stabbed in the melee or struck in the scuffle. Still more distressing, we read that a doctor has been fined over a dispute with a waitress, who received a kick in the altercation.

Canada To Have Over Half A Million Men Under Arms This Year

Ivan The Terrible

Glorious Deeds Of State Praised By Official Soviet Paper

Czar Ivan the Terrible has been put in the good graces of the Soviets by an article in the government newspaper Izvestia, praising his "glorious deeds of state." The reign of the sixteenth century czar was "marked by great popular creativeness in the military art."

V. Kostyleff, who has just finished a novel about Ivan's times, (1530-1584) declared "false ideas about the personality and activity of Ivan IV. were cultivated among the masses."

"Only the dark side of his private life served as the theme of previous works about him."

The writer said he discovered Ivan's true nature during research after noticing the discrepancy between two ideas: "Russia ruled by a semi-lunatic beast, while the state grew so much stronger."

(Ivan always has been pictured as one of the cruellest rulers in history. Once when a foreign ambassador failed to uncover in his presence he is said to have had a servant drive a nail through the man's hat—while it was still on his head.)

(He is said to have ravaged Nizhni Novgorod for five weeks, massacring batches of men, women and children daily, and to have killed his eldest surviving son, Ivan, in a fit of fury.)

(Nevertheless, the Encyclopedia Britannica says, he possessed "extraordinary political foresight" and anticipated "the ideals of Peter the Great.")

Kostyleff wrote that "centralization of the state was carried on strictly by Ivan, consolidating peoples and forces. Indeed, this union of Russia played a great historical role and neither Poland, Sweden, the Tartars nor Turkey ever succeeded in dismembering Russia, although they tried to do so."

"Ivan was the first czar to develop the defence of the borders, as well as trade and justice, and he thus won the sympathy of the people and justified the assassination of his own son," whom Kostyleff called a traitor.

He spoke of Ivan's "far-sighted foreign policy" even while acknowledging that he was "superstitious, afraid of magicians' sorcery, very religious and extremely cruel when anyone stood in his way." These traits, however, were characteristic of Ivan's period, Kostyleff said.

"An objective study of documents in the light of a materialistic understanding of history" Izvestia said, revealed that Ivan was a great patriotic statesman and a skillful diplomat and soldier, who was the first to centralize the Russian State, organize border defence and demand a Baltic outlet.

Sparrow Spends Time Attacking Images Reflected In Hub Cap

A sparrow that hangs around a grocery store in St. Louis, Mo., has gone crazy with curiosity over the owner's new automobile.

The bird spends most of the daylight hours beating its head against the shiny hub caps in a furious attack on the reflected images. Striking its bill against the wheel with a sharp ping, it falls back, pulls itself together, squares off again and takes another crack.

Every five minutes or so it takes time out to rearrange ruffled feathers or scout around for food. Then it returns to the attack—sometimes with an admiring companion sparrow which takes a flyer of its own at the hub cap.

Scotland's Grace Darling

Scotland is acclaiming a "Grace Darling" who manned one of the ears of a lifeboat from a torpedoed ship and rallied the other rowers when they were about to give up from exhaustion. She urged them on by singing out "Heave-ho," at each stroke. Jane Walker, 21, who learned to row at her home town of Largs, Scotland, has been a stewardess for 12 years.

Races United

Empire Women Of All Races Further War Work

Admiration for the war work being done by British and other women in the Far East was expressed by Prof. Winifred Cullis, a London University lecturer, after she completed a propaganda tour under the auspices of the British ministry of information. She toured Japan, Shanghai, Hong Kong, The Netherlands East Indies and Malaya. She will spend a holiday in Australia before returning to England.

"One of the most heartening and marvellous features of this war which I have noticed in my travels," she said, "is the way women of the Empire, women of all races, have come together to do all they can towards the war effort."

More Sheep In Canada

The number of sheep on Canadian farms at December 1, 1940, was 2,688,800, a gain of 1.3 per cent. over the 2,653,000 at December 1, 1939. Declines in numbers occurred in the Maritime Provinces and Ontario, while Saskatchewan showed an increase of 12.5 per cent. It is expected that a further increase in numbers will be shown in the count at June 1, 1941.

Canada, with a peacetime strength of less than 100,000 men in the active and reserve formations of the army, navy and air force, will have more than 500,000 all ranks, either under arms or partially trained by the end of the present year.

Unlike the expeditionary force of approximately 620,000 men enlisted during the four years of the first Great War, Canada's modern military organization has been built up without the aid of high-pressure recruiting campaigns.

Troops already brought to a high pitch of proficiency are either awaiting the signal which will take them to an active theatre of war or are standing guard in home defence areas.

A steady stream of young airmen is beginning to flow from British Commonwealth air training schools and re-inforcements for Canada's growing navy are being marshalled in every province.

In a recent speech, Prime Minister Mackenzie King disclosed that further contingents would be dispatched overseas during 1941, to augment the Canadian corps under command of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton. With the arrival of these forces it is estimated the Dominion's overseas fighting strength will be boosted beyond the 100,000 mark.

The stepped-up war program also provides for expansion of the Empire air training plan by the addition of approximately 36,000 men before the end of the present year.

Upwards of 25,000 airmen are expected to be turned out annually once the scheme is operating at full capacity. That stage, reliable sources say, is not far off.

The Canadian navy which at the outbreak of war comprised 15 ships and a personnel of 1,774 is scheduled to be increased to 413 ships and 26,920 men by March 31, 1942.

Although the actual number of recruits being trained for active service has not been revealed, training camp accommodation is available for more than 200,000 men.

The first class summoned to camps under the four-month compulsory training scheme embraced less than 5,000 men in the 21-year age group, but provision has been made for a turnout of upwards of 60,000 men in the 12 months from March 20.

It has been announced between 40,000 and 80,000 active army recruits will also be required this year to replace troops being sent overseas.

Partial training has also been given to more than 80,000 men between the ages of 21 and 25 called up under the original 30-day training plan.

Since the four-month period was adopted early in February, reports have been current that the compulsory training principle might be extended to higher age categories. This move, it is said, would be contingent on the 21-year-old class failing to produce the needed quota for the year's proposed program.

Among the reserve army formations, whose strength according to latest returns is just under 200,000, a general weeding-out process is under way.

Orders recently went out to commanding officers of reserve units advising them to get ready for a possible emergency. As a result most of these formations are being re-organized on a footing where they can be dispatched on active service if needed or employed on home defence duties.

Finding Many Substitutes

Britain is finding substitutes at home for many articles and products that used to come from the continent. Powder puffs, formerly imported from Poland and France, are being made from English geese skins, while seaweed is replacing potash fertilizer from Germany and Alsace-Lorraine in the production of iodine.

Underground Schools

London's evening institutes, night schools, mostly closed since the air-raids started, have in many cases been re-opened and going strong in underground shelters.

Golf Notes

The golf course will soon be ready for play.

Last year's debts are all straightened out and are hoping for a very active season. We also hope to have quite a few new members as we have one of the sportiest little golf courses in Alberta.

The high school and public school boys are golf-crazy at present and with their co-operation in looking after the greens, bridges and gopher poisoning, we should be able to keep the course in shape till finances allow other work. We would like everyone to come along and support the club and pay dues as prompt as possible. Clint Reiber is the Sec-Treas. and will greet you with a big smile when you pay your dues so we can keep up with improvements to the course.

United Church Notes.

The minister has chosen as his sermon theme for next Sunday "The Primary Fundamental." There are many things in this world that are not important in our beliefs, but are a few that are all important. In faith as in buildings, the foundation must be well and truly laid.

You are invited to join with us in our worship and study next Sunday.
